About the proposed Medical College & Project in Healthcare Management

After establishing quality standards in traditional as well as agricultural, management and technological education, Gokhale Education Society is now venturing into the field of healthcare management and medical education. In 21st century, the real challenge would be to keep health and well-being intact while the world is experiencing rapid economic, environmental, technological, and demographic changes.

WHO in its A Vision For Primary Health Care In The 21st Century, clearly states that empowering individuals, families, and communities to optimize their health is an area of concern. For this purpose, Multisectoral policy and action is required not only from public sector but also from other agencies, including educational enterprises like Gokhale Education Society. We firmly believe that quality education and quality health must go hand in hand.

The proposed project has following salient features:

- It aims at catering to the medical needs of India and in particular Maharashtra.
- It focuses on creating a well-trained workforce, having skills and expertise in healthcare domain.
- The proposed project includes 630 beds hospital, Super Specialty Hospital, Medical Academy, Research center, hostels and residential quarters, auditorium, seminar halls and playfield facilities on a 20 acre piece of land in the heart of Nasik city.
- State of art infrastructure to provide total health care services under one roof and boost research in health care management.
- Quality medical services (24 X 7) at affordable cost to all sections of the society.
